Salman Malik serves as CEO of Veri Energy, an EnQuest PLC subsidiary. Prior to this, Salman was the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Managing Director (MD) of Infrastructure and New Energy at EnQuest PLC, an independent energy company with operations in the United Kingdom and South East Asia.

Since joining EnQuest in 2013, Salman has played a pivotal role in shaping the company's strategy, guiding its transition from an Oil and Gas company to a diversified energy company. Central to this transformation is EnQuest's commitment to achieving net-zero emissions by 2040 and the company's ambitious plans for the Sullom Voe terminal, where he envisions the development of a new energy hub hosting world-scale projects spanning carbon capture and storage, green hydrogen production, and electrification—integral components of the energy transition.

Salman is a CFA Charter holder and earned his undergraduate degree in Finance and Economics from the University of Toronto. His extensive experience in investment banking and private equity spans a wide spectrum of industries, including metals and mining, industrials, and energy.
